

4-H HAS SO MUCH TO OFFER!

Rezberries is working toward shaping leaders for tomorrow and better places to live for everyone. Getting involved in a 4H club can help kids learn about civics, their communities and bring families closer together through project work.

One of the neat things about 4-H is that you can do the projects you like and show them at the county fair. You get to learn something new and practice what you love. Here are just a few projects you might be interested in: (there are many more options to choose from)

- ◇ Dog obedience, raising bunnies or chickens
- ◇ Painting, drawing, beadwork, leather craft
- ◇ Growing vegetables, harvesting maple syrup
- ◇ Writing, music, theater
- ◇ Lego models, rockets, computers
- ◇ Archery, cross-country skiing, rock-climbing

4-H operates at the county, state, national and international level. As a member, you could go to the state 4-H conference, summer or winter camps, or even Space Camp in Alabama.

Please visit the Ashland County 4-H UW-Extension website for more information about project and other 4-H opportunities:

COMMUNITY SERVICE

Now imagine a beautiful summer day and you want to go to the beach. You get there and instead of finding beer cans here and there, you find open space to lay down and enjoy yourself. That was Rezberries that cleaned up that beach. That's the kind of service projects we're planning to do. We also hope to do intergenerational activities with elders on projects like fairy gardens and valentine activities.

CULTURAL ARTS

Our club will also focus on practicing and promoting our traditional Ojibwe culture. Some things we have planned are having guest speakers, working on beading projects, and making outfits for powwow. We also will explore ways to share our pride in our culture through plays and demonstrations.

SHOOTING SPORTS

You may never learn how to shoot a bow with your toes, like the girl in the picture above, but you can learn safe and effective shooting techniques. We hope to partner with other organizations for training and practice in riflery and archery. It's a fun and healthy activity you can enjoy throughout your life.
